

Price Industries Interior Renovations

Ernst Hansch Construction has worked closely with Price Industries Limited for over 20 years, carrying out various interior renovations required to meet the growing needs and changes of their company.

Working to complete changes and modifications to existing office spaces, each successful renovation project requires creative solutions to work within an active workplace in order to accommodate the needs of staff in the occupied space with minimal disruption.

Price Industries Limited, a market leader in supplying air distribution, critical controls and noise control products, is a privately held family company with a deep heritage and commitment to innovation and service.

Their long-standing vision, traditional values and the Price way of doing business are the cornerstone of their leadership position in the non-residential air distribution industry.
